Children and adolescents have the right to:

- Life, development, participation and protection.
- Have a name and a nationality.
- Know who our parents are and not be separated from them.
- Grow healthy physically, mentally and spiritually.
- That our private life be respected.
- Have our own culture, language and religion.
- Have access to all the information that we need for our well-being and development as people.
- Express ourselves freely, to be heard and to have our opinion considered.
- Be free from discrimination and unfair treatment.
- Have someone to turn to in case we are mistreated or harmed.
- That we are not forced to perform hazardous work or activities that affect or hinder our health, education and development.
- Be protected from violence, abuse and exploitation.
- Learn everything we need to develop to the fullest.
- Have a dignified and fulfilling life, including those of us who have a physical or mental disability.
- Rest, relax, play, and to take part in cultural and creative activities.
- Live in a healthy and clean environment, and enjoy contact with nature.
- Participate actively in the cultural life of our community through music, painting, theater, cinema or any means of expression.
- Meet with friends to collaborate on projects or exchange ideas.

HEY LISTEN,
WHY DIDN'T YOU BUY AN ICE CREAM?

BECAUSE I'M SAVING FOR THIS BIKE.
WHEN I HAVE ENOUGH FOR HALF,
MY PARENTS WILL HELP ME
WITH THE REST.
